ONE-TIME LABOR LEADER VERY ILL

John Arch Who Is Nearing 84th Milestone Is in Critical Condition at English Home.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

London, Sept. 14.—Joseph Arch, the former noted labor leader and member of parliament, is seriously ill at his home in Wrentham. In view of his advanced age—he will be eight-ty-four next November—his recovery is regarded as doubtful. A generation ago Mr. Arch was looked upon as the foremost labor leader in England, and certainly no man ever did more for the amelioration of the condition of the English farm laborer. In 1872 he originated the National Agricultural Laborers' Union, which became one of the strongest labor organizations in the country and almost completely revolutionized the condition of the farm hand, who was then little more than a serf.

50,000 TROOPS IN FRENCH MANEUVERS

Practical Tests of Military Aeroplanes Are to Be Made on an Extensive Scale.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

troops under the direction of General Michelet are taking part in the grand maneuvers of the French army which began in Picardy today and will continue until next Monday. The manuevers this year will be of exceptional that the practical tests of the military aeroplanes will be made on a more extensive scale than ever before.

ESCAPED DEATH IN BIG FOREST FIRES

Fred C. Copeland, Well Known Here, Saved Both Himself and His Men in Montana.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Fears entertained by Janesville friends of Fred C. Copeland, who was known to have had charge of a large force of bridge builders in the Montana district recently swept by terrible forest fires, were allayed today by a letter from an official of the Bates and Rogers construction company, for whom Mr. Copeland is working. When the fires were raging, Copeland was known to be in the vicinity of Miss-soula, Mont., and dispatches from there at the time stated that it was feared that both he and his four hundred men had perished. They escaped safely, however, and Copeland has been rewarded much praise for his conduct as shown by the following extract from the letter received today.

"It was by his cool headness and bravery that he was able to save himself and the several hundred men in his charge. The chances were thousand to one against him but he got out all right and brought the men with him."

Copeland, who had charge of the construction of the big concrete arches on the North-Western Ry., in this city some years ago, is well known here and his friends are delighted to hear that he escaped safely and with great honor to himself.

ANTI-PATTERSON DEMS OF TENNESSEE CONVENE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 14.—The Independent Democrats of Tennessee, comprising that element of the party which is opposed to the Patterson administration and methods, assembled in convention here today to decide upon the course to be followed in the coming campaign. A strong movement is on foot to have the Independents endorse Captain Benjamin W.
Hooper, the Republican nominee for governor, which step, it is believed, would insure the defeat of Governor Patterson, who is a candidate for re-election.

FORTIFICATION OF THE PANAMA CANAL IS AGAIN AN INTERNATIONAL QUESTION

General T. Warren Keifer, once Speaker of the House of Representatives, is Quoted at Paris as Saying that United States Cannot Take Such Steps Without Violating Treaty Obligations to Great Britain

FORTIFYING PANAMA CANAL BE- COMES INTERNATIONAL QUES- TION.

The canal as it appears today. Below Gen. T. Warren Keifer, who says Hay-Pauncefote agreement prohibits defense and President Taft, who is actively planning to defend the canal.

Washington, Sept. 14.—The fortification of the Panama canal has suddenly become an international question again after lying dormant since the pact of 1901, in which it was supposed to have been for all time settled.

President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt and all those who saw the Hay-Pauncefote agreement conceived and ratified by the United States and England upon the interpretation of this favorable to the United States. The one dissenting voice is that of Gen. T.
Warren Keifer, once speaker of the house of representatives, who in Paris is reported to have said:

"Let me state at the outset that the United States cannot fortify the Panama canal without breaking treaty obligations with Great Britain. At Brussels I made this statement before the assembled delegations from parliaments of various powers. My proposition opposing the fortification of the canal received general approbation.

"The question of the fortification of the canal has been brought up by Mr.
Roosevelt, who in his speech made at Omaha, Neb., took a stand that puzzle me, for reasons which I will explain.

"In 1900, when the question arose of a new treaty between the United States and Great Britain superseding the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850, John Hay, then secretary of state, and Lord Pauncefote, acting for Great Britain, drew up a treaty which was submitted to the senate for ratification by Mr. Roosevelt, then president.

"This treaty, in February, 1901, ex-

General T. Warren Keifer, once Speaker of the House of Representatives, is quoted at Paris as saying that United States cannot take such steps without violating treaty obligations to Great Britain.

President Taft, who is actively planning to defend the canal.

pressly prohibited the fortification of the canal. It was accepted by Great Britain, but the United States modified it by striking out the anti-fortification clause. Great Britain promptly repudiated this, and consequently the projected treaty failed. Relations of the two countries were thrown back upon the provisions of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty.

"The treaty actually in force is that of November, 1901, drawn by Mr. Hay and Lord Pauncefote, which superseded the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. It expressly forbids the fortification of the Panama canal in terms similar to those of the Suez canal treaty of 1858.

"It was presented for ratification to the senate by Mr. Roosevelt himself, who then must have approved its provisions.

"English papers have taken up this side and maintain that the United States cannot fortify.

"On the other side, Mr. Taft is cited to uphold the United States. In this rule of the original treaty submitted by Mr. Hay it was prescribed that the canal should be free and open. 'In time of war as in time of peace' to the vessels of all nations.

This led to a heated debate with the result that the words 'in time of war as in time of peace' were omitted, with the understanding that the United States should have the right to fortify the canal and maintain its neutrality.

"In support of this Lord Lansdowne, the British foreign secretary, said on August 31, 1910:

"I understand that by the omission of a reference to the matter of defense the United States Government desires to reserve the power of taking measures to protect the canal, at any time when the United States may be at war, from destruction or damage at the hands of an enemy or enemies. I am not prepared to deny that contingencies may arise when not only from a national point of view.

"On behalf of the interests of the whole world, it might be of supreme importance to the United States that they should be free to adopt measures for the defense of the canal at a moment when they were themselves engaged in hostilities."

unrelenting cross-examination by Crippen's attorney, Dr. Pepper, government analyst, repudiated much of the former testimony and admitted it was impossible to determine the sex of the Louise Edwards, wife of Ira Edwards, who conducts a farm at Blackwolf Point, seven miles south of here, was murdered in the kitchen of her home late yesterday afternoon by George Kuenzel, a farm hand, who afterwards killed himself.

"The bodies of Mrs. Edwards and Kuenzel were found lying in a pool of blood in the kitchen of the house by the husband of the woman. Mrs. Edwards was shot through the head and Kuenzel had succumbed to a similar wound. The bullet from the revolver entered the roof of his mouth. Mrs.
Edwards' head was terribly disfigured.

"The husband of the dead woman had been absent from the farm all the afternoon, having gone to town to do-liver pigs.

Kuenzel was a drinking man. He before committing the deed he removed his shoes. The police think he came upon the woman by stealth.

No motive for the deed has yet been assigned.

IMPORTANT ISSUES TO BE SETTLED IN ILLINOIS TOMORROW

First Test Of New Direct Primary Law Expected to Result in Shake-Up Among Congressmen

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Illinois' new direct primary law—the fourth since 1905—will be given its first test tomorrow, when all parties will name their candidates for State, congressional, legislative, county and judicial offices. The campaign has been one of the most exciting in the political history of Illinois. In the contest for State and legislative office the Lorimer scandal has been the paramount issue, with national and other local matters mixed in. In the congressional campaign Cannonism, the Payne tariff bill and the high cost of living have been the subjects most discussed.

The better element of both parties is supporting the proposition that the legislature shall be cleaned out from top to bottom of all men who voted for William Lorimer for United States senator. There are 204 members of the legislature, of whom 55 Republicans and 53 Democrats, 108 in all, voted for Lorimer for senator. Four of the 108 have confessed that they were bribed to vote for Senator Lorimer. Another, who has not confessed, has already been tried once for bribery and is now being tried the second time. Still another has been indicted for alleged bribery.

About twenty of the legislators who voted for Lorimer are not candidates for re-election. Several are hold-over senators who cannot be re-elected at the coming election. The interest taken in the movement to purify the legislature has brought candidates galore. The Democrats, believing they have a chance to capture the legislature have put up two candidates in practically every district of the State, and the Republicans have done likewise. For the 153 seats in the lower house 530 candidates are entered in the primaries, and for the twenty-six State senatorships to be filled there are 182 aspirants.

The fight of insurgency against standpattism has also brought out candidates in plenty for congressional seats. For the twenty-five seats Illinois has in the national house of representatives 154 candidates are seeking party nomination.

The prediction is made that few, if any, of the Illinois congressmen will be returned with their old-time majorities behind them. One of the delegation, Frank O. Lowden, decided not to stand for re-election, and have a dozen others have serious contests on their hands for re-nomination.

One Democrat, James P. Mc Dermott of the Fourth district, has been turned down by the Democratic organization because he voted in aid of the Cannon House organization last March. In the Republican ranks the signs of insurgency are pronounced.
The leading Republican members have opposition in almost every instance.

Two Republicans are contesting for the seat of William J. Moxley in the Sixth district. Moxley has come in for much notoriety the past year for much notorious the past year and his defeat is considered likely.
Recently he was forced to pay the Government a fine of $20,000 for violation of the oleomargarine law and his firm has also been repeatedly mentioned in connection with "butter moonshining" in Chicago.

The real surprise of the congress-sional contest is likely to occur in the Ninth district, where Henry S.
Boutell, member of the Ways and Means Committee, who nominated Speaker Cannon for President, and is known as the "ideal statesman," is believed to be in grave danger of defeat. The newspapers unqualifiedly assert that Boutell, who is known as the "lionheart of protection," is not coming back.

Out in the State, Representative Howard M. Shapp of the Eleventh district, who is an out-and-out Cannon man, had a very serious contest on his hands, and withdrew from the race. So far as Speaker Cannon is concerned, he will undoubtedly be returned from the Danville district.

Opposition in their own party faces Representatives Martin B.
Madden in the First district, James B. Mann in the Second, William W.
Wilson in the Third, Fred Landin in the Seventh, George Edmund Fox in the Tenth, and Speaker Cannon in the Eighteenth.

There is no opposition among the Republicans to the re-election of Representative Charles E. Fuller in the Fourth district, George W. Prince in the Fifth, Joseph C. Craft in the Sixteenth and William McKinley in the Nineteenth district.

Three Republicans are contesting for Frank O. Lowden's seat in the Thirteenth district. Two Democrats are contesting the re-election of Adolph J. Sabath in the Fifth district.
Henry T. Rainey, the Democratic representative from the twentieth district, will be renominated without opposition.

RECOVER BODY FROM PECATONICA RIVER

Body of George Karn of Brownstown Taken From River by Searching Parties Yesterday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Brownstown, Wis., Sept. 14.—The body of George Karn, who was drowned Sunday night in the Pecatonica river west of Brownstown, was recovered yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was found near the big rock in the river around the bend from the railroad bridge. One hundred men have been searching the river to find traces of him since his hat was found floating on the water. A hay rake and a corn planter were found with him and were being used to search the river and dragged along the bottom from both banks.

He spent Sunday afternoon at camp with Brownstown parties in company with James Michaels. On their return back from camp, which was made by boat, the men were ducking one another. Karn had $25 in bills and handed the roll to Michaels for safe keeping. The latter went on ahead and after he had crossed the railroad bridge where he had left their horse standing he missed Karn. One of the campers saw Karn as he was climbing up the embankment at the bridge and later heard a yell and saw the hat floating down the stream. Parties who were in a boat on the river heard a splash and a yell.

Karn has been running a saloon at Brownstown and was but thirty years of age.

Plan Reunion.
Survivors of the Old Fifth Battery are talking of holding a reunion next September which will mark the fifty-third anniversary of enlistment. About three hundred enlisted in the original light artillery, but there are few survivors left and they are widely scattered. This Fifth Battery was raised by Capt. O. F. Pinney, who was in the United States army five years, serving in the Florida and Mexican wars and who was commissioned by the government, captain of artillery. The battery was one of the most active in the service. The company was raised in 1861 and went into camp at Camp Udey, Rachel. Subsequently they were stationed at Hamburg, Tenn., fought in the battle of Farmington on May 3, were in Mississippi and Alabama and at the end of the year 1862 they were near Nashville. There are few of the battery boys living here now.

The Madison state league team will play Monroe on Saturday afternoon at the fair and will also play Sunday. This is the first state league team that has been secured for a game with the local team.

Albert Stauffacher, Harry Stauffacher, John Heller, Wm. Hutzman, and the Misses Mary Stauffacher and Elvina Elmer have returned to Naperville to continue their studies in Northwestern college. The former Mr. Stauffacher will have a class part of the time in connection with his studies. He is taking special work preparatory to teaching in Japan.

Mrs. Charlie Confor has returned to Madison after a visit to Dr. W. B. Guel and family.

Mrs. Edith Ivel returned yesterday to Appleton to enter her junior year in the Lawrence university.

THAT BUM RIGHT EYE.

Bethel, Mich.—While the first reports to the effect that Tyrus Cobb was about to lose his eyesight, were entirely overdrawn, the fact remains that his batting eye is badly in need of a vacation and scientific treatment. During the past two weeks it has been noticed even among the fans, batsman was limping up the pithed ball with his eye squinted almost shut. The phenomenal thing about it now is that he has been able to maintain his lead in the batting average, and even should he be put out of commission for the balance of the season will undoubtedly win the automobile offered for the leading batsman.

It is reported that Jennings contemplates putting a band-aid over the right eye of each of the other players as they come to bat to see if this will improve the batting averages of the rest of the team.

INSURGENCY AGAIN ON CREST OF WAVE

New York, Sept. 14.—Primaries in the four counties of Greater New York leave it almost a neck and neck race between Theodore Roosevelt and Vice President Sherman for chairman of the Republican state convention. A line-up gives Roosevelt 305 and Sherman 316. Some of the results of the primaries are:

In the success of the Roosevelt-Griscom faction in practically every district in New York county, where there was practically no opposition.

Victory for Woodruff.
In a victory for State Chairman Woodruff in nineteen of the twenty-three districts in Kings.

State Committeeman Joseph De Brugga, the old guard leader, held three if not the entire four districts in Queens, while President George Cromwell maintains his grip on Richmond.

Predictions were reiterated that the Roosevelt-Griscom alliance will control 233 of the 364 delegates from the metropolitan district to Saratoga.

The vote of confidence given Woodruff warrants the belief that he and William Barnes, Jr., will fight the harder to make Vice-President Sherman, instead of Theodore Roosevelt, temporary chairman of the convention, and thus seek to maintain the supremacy of the "old guard."

Woodruff's allies declared that he would have back of him at Saratoga 111 of the 146 delegates from Kings.

Contests Are Few.
The promised Old Guard-Roosevelt-Griscom district-by-district battle did not materialize in New York county. There were only six contests in the entire thirty-two districts.

J. Timlin, Jr., Republican leader in the Richmond district, declared that the eight delegates from there would probably be for Roosevelt. Timlin, in proxy for State Committeeman George Cromwell, voted for Sherman at the last committee meeting.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 14.—Returns indicate that Congressman Fowler of the Fifth district has been endorsed by the people of New Jersey for the United States senate to succeed Senator Keen, with ex-Governor Stokes a close second and ex-Governor Murphy trailing on behind.

Considerably less than half of the normal vote seems to have been polled, although this was the first opportunity the people have had to express choice for the United States senate.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 14.—Returns received from all but twenty-one towns in the state give Plafsted (Dem.) a plurality of 8,551 over Forbald (Rep.). Hinds (Rep.) is elected to congress in the First district over Pennell (Dem.), while in the Fourth district Congressman Guernsey (Rep.) is elected over Hanson (Dem.), both by small margins. McMillen (Dem.) is elected over Congressman Swazey (Rep.) in the Second district by a plurality of 2,500, while Congressman Burleigh (Rep.) is defeated in the Third district by Gould (Dem.) by a plurality of 2,200.

Returns from all but two small representative classes give the Democrats 21 out of 21 state senators and 86 out of 151 representatives.

"I see you are a sort of stepson, then?"

They fit well. All Munsing suits are cut to conform to the outline of the form, and are made in such a way that every part of the figure is completely covered. The fabrics are elastic and yield readily to every motion of the body. The garments are easy to put on, always stay in place, and can be removed with less trouble than vests and pants. They fit the form perfectly and are the best foundation for stylish, perfect fitting clothes. Their advantages are so many and the satisfaction to be had in wearing them is so great that it is only a question of time when they will be worn by every man, woman and child who wishes to be neatly dressed.

The exceptional values offered in Munsing Underwear are the result of system and organization as applied in the operation of the best equipped and most successful knitting mill in the United States. Every facility which experience can suggest or capital supply is at the disposal of the skilled labor in the various manufacturing departments. A daily production of over 25,000 garments has made it possible to reduce the cost of production to a minimum. The sanitary conditions surrounding the production of Munsing Underwear are ideal. Visitors to the mill while interested in the machinery and labor saving devices employed, invariably become enthusiastic in their praise of the perfect order, cleanliness and system everywhere apparent. No expense is spared to make every garment as it should be, perfect in every detail of manufacture. Combination suits to retail at fifty cents or one dollar are shaped and finished with the same care as the higher priced garments. The assortment of styles, sizes, fabrics and qualities is so great that it is possible to please people of the most exacting taste and to fit nearly every figure.

Sensible, Serviceable, Satisfactory

The Munsing Underwear is the most sensible, serviceable and satisfactory underwear to be obtained at any price. In quality it is fine enough for the most fastidious. In cost it is so moderate that it may be enjoyed by all. Underwear costing two or three times as much will give no more real comfort or satisfaction. The fact that people who have once worn the Munsing Underwear can seldom be induced to buy any other kind is the best sort of evidence as to the merit of the goods. The yarns used are the best that can be secured. The various fabrics manufactured are the finest that can be produced for the prices quoted and will wear longer, wash better and give more service than any similar fabrics on the market. Whether considered from the standpoint of health, durability, appearance or price, the Munsing Underwear merits your patronage. No other underwear combines so many good qualities and is so moderate in cost.

Washing Quality Munsing Underwear is non-shrinkable due to the fact that all wool garments are interwoven with just enough cotton to insure it from shrinking.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

HOW LONG is it since you've had your pictures taken? If it's over five years, that means that you are morally due at the photographer's again, and consequently that tonight's chat may interest you a bit.

In the first place, as to what to wear. Don't wear anything stiff and heavy that will not fall in pretty lines. Soft silks or satins, crepe de chine, thin velvets or velvies, and soft muslins take best.

Don't wear anything stiffly pleated, tucked or shirred. Full, softly gathered things that can be gracefully and easily draped are much better.

Don't wear dark things. The shadows are too heavy. White, ivory, pale blue, pink and yellow take the light the best.

If you wear a shirt waist be sure it fits perfectly, especially around the neck, and that it lies flat across the front.

If you prefer nobleness to prettiness, a picture in a tailored suit and hat may please you. Such pictures are rather in favor just now. Only be sure that the coat is perfectly plain tailored and fits you well, and have the hat a sailor, a very simply tailored hat, or a gamsboro. For a hat picture, gamsboro hats are always the best, both because they never go out of style and because they are the most artistic.

If you are anxious for a picture that will never look old-fashioned, low neck and draped bust is the best.

Do not be afraid of this if your neck is thin. The line of the thin neck no matter how thin it is, is artistic. Most photographers would rather work with a very thin neck than with a fat one, because in a fat neck they have to slice off the lines to make it look well, and it is much easier to fill out the neck.

Don't have just head pictures. Your body is as much a part of you and as expressive of yourself as your face. Many photographers would rather have a well posed, gracefully draped figure to work with than a pretty face. Study yourself in a mirror beforehand and find whether you look best full face, three-quarters or profile, and give your findings to the photographer by way of suggestion.

When you are in the act of having the picture taken, don't allow yourself to feel strained. As far as you can, while still keeping the pose the photographer desires, relax. Breathe naturally. Don't try to hold your breath. Consciously and fully relax.

Last, and most important of all, according to a prince among photographers, BLINK YOUR EYES. No, I haven't made a mistake. I don't mean the opposite. Unless you have very light eyelashes you can blink your eyes several times during the exposure and it will not spoil the picture. Quite the contrary. For if you let them blink regularly and just as you naturally would, instead of consciously trying to hold them open, you will eliminate that stony stare, which has doubtless spoiled many pictures.

A Stunning Suit in a Novel Material.

A shade which would be blue if it were not green and would be green if it were not suggestive of blue, is developed in this fetching suit of ratine, the new roughly surfaced material which seems destined to have great vogue during the ensuing six months. The narrow skirt shows the inverted pleat effect forming four panels which feature are bordered with a blue piece of the same fabric. The diagonally closing jacket, while loosely fitting, accurately defines the figure; the sleeves show the oblong, finished cuff, and the shawl collar is embellished with the Egyptian embroidery which has recently been introduced. Changeable green-blue velvet drapes the crown of the newest shape in flat turbans, which has a fur-trimmed band relieved by a pair of white dove wings.

A GOOD WORLD.

By MARY HENNELLY.

To read the pessimistic of any age it would seem that the country is rapidly going to the dogs. Or at least to whatever condition of wreck-age that saying may imply.

Any old newspaper will tell you that the world is deteriorating.

The old writers all decry "the spirit of the age" and compare the day in which they lived with the day before.

It is one of the faults of the pessimist that he always carries his head twisted over his shoulder. It is also a noteworthy fact that most of the critical writers of any age are pessimists.

Now whether there is a corroding acid in printers' ink which bites deep into the sensibilities, or whether much juggling with words has a soothing effect on tempers I cannot say, but the brooding through old libraries—and new—would give that impression.

There may have been a time when man was childless because unconscious of sin. Good because he knew no difference between good and bad. Incomprehending, he knew no evil—and knew no good. He was a savage and in the hands of ignorance.

Now men know themselves as never before. Even the armor of egotism will not shield a man from the world and its opinions. Wealth and power will not serve to cover his short comings from the eyes of the people.

It was once said that the rich were not punished for great crimes as were the poor for small ones. Today justice is beginning to take the bandages from her eyes. She looks upon the soul—not upon the accumulations of wealth or power. Men and women are judged by what they are as never before. Standards are higher for all classes alike than the world has ever before known.

How then can we be so steeped in evil as the pessimists would have us think?

"The world is out of joint! Oh, cursed spite That ever I was born to set it right!"

No one man—no half a dozen men—no sect or creed—will ever set the world exactly right. Men will think as their sense of right and justice dictates to them as individuals. But we grow closer and closer together in one great bond of a belief that the world was made for all men—not for the few. That justice and mercy is for all—not a chosen country or will in the swaddling clothes of kings but little meaning. It is the people who have the divine right.

The great steamers of the Rhine bend their way bravely up against tide and current with a wonderful and irresistible force. To the passengers the steady pull against adverse conditions is little short of miraculous. If they would not the captain they would find that underneath the deep waters runs a stout cable to which the ship attaches itself, when the current is impassable, and it is thus borne steadily and strongly upward on its course. It is a wonderful thought.

Like the great cable is the bond of brotherhood and right thinking which bears us onward and upward through strong adverse currents and against head winds.

Call it God if you like. Call it good if it please you. Give it any name in any language that suits your religion. After all it is the desire to do right—the desire to be right—the love of fellow man which makes the cable which draws the good old world of men upward and onward. We can't get away from it. We may not know it is there. We may doubt its presence. That does not alter the facts in the case. We will be better—albeit we are better! It is a fine, good world, my masters.

BRITISH AEROPLANIST BEATS THE AMERICANS

Grahame-White Carries Off First Honor at Boston Meet—Wins $10,000 Prize.

Boston, Sept. 17.—Claude Grahame-White, the British aviator, won the blue ribbon event of the Boston-Harvard aero meet, the Boston Globe prize of $10,000 for his harbor flight to Boston Light and return. White used a Farman biplane and a Moriot monoplane, equipped with French motors in his flights.

The Englishman took altogether four first places and three seconds in different events, winning $22,100 in prize money. No person was injured during the meet and there was less than $500 damage to any machine.

Walter Brookins and Ralph Johnstone, who fly Wright machines, came in for a good share of the prize money. Johnstone getting three first prizes and one second, which netted him $5,000, while Brookins took in $4,250 on two first places and one second. Glenn H. Curtis won the second place in speed and $2,000, while Charles Foster Willard won $50 for second place in "getaway."

Practically all the amateur prizes were won by Clifford B. Harmon of New York, who flew a Farman biplane.

LETTER FROM O. E. NEWTON

Of Co. A, 13th Wisconsin, Also Dwells on Politics, G. A. R. Matters, Jim Jeffries, and Life's Philosophy.

O. E. Newton of Los Angeles has taken upon himself the gentle and gracious task of acquainting Rock county people with the whereabouts and fortunes of some of their old friends who have drifted away from ancient moorings and found a refuge on the shores of the Pacific. Longtime residents and particularly the Grand Army veterans who read his gentle, "sunshiny" letter can wish for no better fate, should they, too, ever wander far, than to have Comrade Newton act as the "tracer of lost persons" and bring them back again.

Los Angeles, Sept. 7, 1910.
Editor Gazette:
It has been my good fortune to meet quite a number of good people that formerly resided in Wisconsin. Possibly some one of them may prove to be a "long lost brother" or a "wondering boy." If there is any reward out, I'll take it.

I have a neighbor by the name of Hiram Baker who resided in Janesville in 1860-61 and was hauled at one time to both Myers and Hyatt Houses. For numerous reasons he closed the "Myers" as a hotel, and took most of his patrons to the "Hyatt," a fact that displeased the owner very much. Mr. Baker later transferred his interest to other parties and moved to Chicago, where after some thirty years of strenuous life on the board of trade, he retired on a most generous competency, and wisely decided that the road to the "House of Many Mansions" passes through the flowery valleys of southern California, and that the "City of Angels" should be his abiding place until summoned by the messenger that calls for all.
He certainly does enjoy recalling incidents of fifty years ago.

If you want to find a representation of any state, county, city or hamlet, or a comrade from any regiment, or a long-lost brother, sister or friend, or a lost or stolen child, or a runaway husband or wife, or if you want to find the man you owe for groceries, etc., come to Los Angeles. There's plenty of them here. There's lots of good people, and a few bad ones. The good people will try to make you rich by selling you real estate, gold mines, oil wells, wave motors, or stock in anything that you want, or don't want.
As for the bad, they'll hold you up, take your money, and send you to the hospital or the morgue. Just at present the hand-shaking, baby-kissing politicians are abroad in the land, it does seem—well, Hades, how the office-seekers love the dear people just before election.

The Southern California Veterans' association had a long and acrimonious discussion at their late meeting at Huntington Beach, being opposed to placing volunteer officers on the retired list at half pay. It was contended that it would so decrease the pension fund as to prevent congress from passing a pension bill giving private and non-commissioned officers one dollar a day, which bill now pending.
It surely shows a very selfish disposition on the part of commissioned officers to make such a demand, and if persisted in, will no doubt delay the passing of a much-needed advance to wreedy and deserving soldiers. No one will object to their having the same pension. They were no more patriotic nor did they render greater service to the government than the man that carried the gun. There was not a private in the army but what would have obeyed the commands of a non-commissioned officer as willingly as they would a commissioned officer. They never refused to follow the flag.
Equal rights to all!

While at Long Beach last week I met Mr. O. Wilcox and wife, former residents of Janesville. They have a most delightful home at 227 East Fourth street. Mr. Wilcox was one of the unfortunates in the 2nd Wisconsin Regiment, and does his "promising" in a wheel chair. Fortunately his health is good and he takes his very philosophical. He is a host of friends, and a special favorite with all the children. He is an old time problem, and like myself, believes that if any reforms are needed, it should be done in the party, and not by dividing it. "United we stand; divided we fall." Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox extended the glad hand to all their Janesville friends.

While at the Beach I had the pleasure of greeting two old comrades of Co. A, of the 13th Wisconsin. One was Sgt. F. Colby who resided at 1411 East First street, and the other was F. M. Wilbur of 1415 Loma street.
Both made numerous inquiries about friends in Janesville and expressed a desire to hear from them, and to advise them to come to Long Beach, the queen of all the wave-washed California beaches.

If any of your readers ever go to Long Beach and want someone to make them feel that life is worth living, who has a heart full of love and kindness for his fellow men, who scatters smiles and theory words down his journey, let them call on Mr.
Frank Gray, 1555 East First street.
He has lately built one of the most modern, up-to-date bungalows in Long Beach and only one block from Old Neptune's watery world. The family circle was surely one of companionship and elevation—unhindered angels in time of sorrow and adversity—kind that can make the sun shine on a cloudy day. May the time be long before they will be called to sleep beneath the daisies and the dew.

There is one man in Los Angeles whom I hold in high esteem, one whose physical disabilities confine him to his room, and only under the most favorable conditions is he able to ride out and enjoy the God-given sunshine, and the purest air that blows out of heaven. A man of sincere devotion to what he believes to be true and right, and as loyal to his friends as the stars to their appointed course.
W. D. Strong is the name. If his old time friends and associates could realize the kindly Christian spirit he entertains toward all, his desire that they have a bill of fare of peace, happiness and enjoyment and that when they pass through the pearly gates the Angel of God will greet them with their enfolding wings of love, they would certainly petition that his name be placed on the front page of the book of the Recording Angel.

Whenever I call on him I always receive that same pleasant and cheery greeting, and the same genial smile for which he was noted in years ago.
He now resides at 1335 Ingraham street. He sends greetings to all his old friends.

Shakespeare said that no legacy is as rich as honesty, and that is one of the legacies that was left to my old friend Warren D. Parker. He resides at 653 South Lake street, Pasadena. He has a delightful and happy home, made so by those whose hearts are full of worth and goodness, and who greet friends with a hand-clasp that means something. Ever ready to extend a helping hand to the needy and deserving, and by their words of cheer, and deeds of quiet charity, have brightened the lives of all that know them. Mrs. Parker has fully recovered from her almost fatal accident of some months ago, and much to the satisfaction of Mr. Parker, as well as to numerous friends. I had the pleasure of visiting at their home a short time ago and many incidents of the long ago were recalled.

If there is anything that will cheer and enliven the soul, and make the world look bright, it is to have old friends meet you with a smile and friendly hand-clasp, to express both pleasure and regret with a sincerity that can only come from an honest friendship. Such an experience I had when I met my boyhood friend, Mr.
Charles L. Millmore. He resides at 47 North Mentor avenue, Pasadena.
Mr. and Mrs. Millmore are quite well, and while each passing your leaves its record, they have an abiding faith that their days will be long in this land of God's unmitigated good.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hatch wish to be remembered to all their old friends.
Neither are in good health, and seldom leave the family home. They reside at 287 Ave. 26, and always are glad to hear from old friends.

Mr. McCullough, the old time printer from Janesville, is still standing at the case. They have been spending some time at the Beach. Mrs. McC's health has improved much of late.
They wish to be remembered to all their old friends. Southern California looks good to them.

I count as personal friends two of the 8th Wis. Infantry. One is S. F.
DeVoin, Co. A, who enlisted from Waupaca. He is in the real estate and crude oil business, has good health, and has no quarrel with anyone. He is an "insurgent" either. The other comrade is D. E. Milliken of Co.
A, 8th Wis. Infantry. A native of Milan, pointed to the Home at Law, died in 1908, died June 6th, aged 79.
The death list is increasing every year, and those that receive a self-appointed pension are fast leaving the Home. Give the "old boys" a dollar a day and the Home would soon be closed. The opportunities for "crafting" from "Uncle Sam" would be much less.

I lately made the acquaintance of Mr. C. R. Vesper, one time station agent at Footville, Wis. He is a "cestialist immigration agent" now—an undertaker, sort of middle man between the doctor and the grave. His "parlors" are at 1938 East First street, elegantly furnished and with all the latest improvements. He welcomes all that come to him with a bouquet of flowers in one hand and a mourning wreath in the other, and says the only way to keep a friend forever is to embalm them.

If you come to Los Angeles and want someone to "jolly you up" take the elevator to "111" Foulie's office on Broadway. He is still in the insurance business and considered an expert on everything from pulp to pit.
"His laugh is just like sunshine, It freshens all the day;
It tips the peaks of life with light And drives the clouds away."

Mr. W. H. McDonald, ex-C. & N. W. conductor, says he has found there is work enough in the world for all who are willing and able to perform it, and he is getting his share, and results are satisfactory. He still helps people to move—if they pay him.

Charley Potter still holds a good position with the Rock Crusher Co., and resides at 369 Winona avenue, Pasadena. Mr. and Mrs. Potter are quite well.

Walter VanKirk can be found in the assessor's office at Pasadena. His house number is 269 Grant St.
Dwight Crosby resides at 257 South Los Robles street, Pasadena.
Geo. S. Shibley resides at 829 East 27th street. He is building "happy homes" and selling them to "happy people."

W. F. Newbury resides at 1023 East 28th street. He has an important position with the Salt Lake Ry.
George W. Ward resides at 141 Ave.
29. He is still in the shoe business and business looks good to him.
Chas. F. Merrill resides at 623 1/2 Maple Ave. He has retired from business and lets the other fellow do the walking. He goes fishing.
Geo. W. Bridge resides at 2028 Brooklyn Ave. is still in business and has no worries.

I presume some of your readers are aware that this is the home of the Hon. Jim Jeffries. He is trying to make himself believe that he was "doped." Not many that believe it.
Six years "before the bar" tossing "high-balls," bumping cigarettes, and punching billiard balls, made "punch" of his muscles. His friends are wondering why they ever bet on him.
Johnson has no admirers here, except among his own race. No doubt he is a hard-bitter, but there is no glory in that the Missouri mule has the best of him.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Melvin, who resides at 381 North Raymond Ave., Pasadena, have lately returned from an extended trip through Alaska. They report a most enjoyable time. Mrs. Melvin will be better remembered as the daughter of Sheriff Hoskins in the days of the Mayberry incident.

To our friends I'll say that Father Time has been exceedingly kind to us and never a regret for coming here, Climate has done much for me, but in life's battle I have learned that it is not good for man to live alone, and that a happy home is an earthly annex to heaven. I have it.
Good night,
O. E. NEWTON.

T. F. WALSH ESTATE SHRINKS.

Only $6,500,000, Says Inventory, But State Will Investigate.

Denver, Col., Sept. 14.—The estate of the late Thomas F. Walsh, which had been appraised as high as $100,000,000, is worth only $6,500,000 according to the inventory filed by Judge S. A. Osborn, representing the estate. Of this valuation, $2,000,000 is Colorado property.

Temporarily the state has accepted the figures filed by Judge Osborn, but will make an appraisal of its own.
Next week a representative of the general office will go to Washington to take evidence concerning Mr. Walsh's place of residence. Colorado will try to prove that Mr. Walsh had his fixed residence here.

WOMEN AT POLLS ARRESTED.

New Yorkers Cause Arrest When They Insist on "Watching."

New York, Sept. 14.—The employment of women as watchers at the polling places was not a success. In some instances the women were refused to go. Police magistrates seemed to be at odds regarding the law on this point. Some ruled that women, not having the right to vote, could not act as watchers, while others took an opposite view. Mrs.
Robert Mangles Corwin III was twice ejected from polling places.

PANAMA CHARGE IS RECALLED.

R. O. Marsh Will Be Assigned to Duty In State Department.

Washington, Sept. 14.—R. O. Marsh of Illinois, charge d'affaires of the American legation at Panama, has been recalled. Upon arrival in this city he will be assigned to duty in the state department. Acting Secretary of State Huntington Wilson declined to explain the reason for the withdrawal of Mr. Marsh. It is believed, however, that Mr. Marsh was ordered to return to this country because of his recent alleged participation in political affairs in Panama.

PANIC IN GOTHAM BRIDGE FIRE.

Switching Apparatus in New York Short-Circuited—Traffic Tied Up.

New York, Sept. 14.—With a series of blinding flashes of electricity, accompanied by thunderous detonations, the apparatus in the switching house in the New York end of the Brooklyn bridge was short-circuited and the structure destroyed by fire at the height of the rush hour last night. A panic narrowly was averted.

POPE PIUS MUCH DEPRESSED.

Said to Be Suffering From Arteriosclerosis and Gout.

Rome, Sept. 14.—It is reported that Pope Pius is suffering from arteriosclerosis as well as gout and that he feels very much depressed. His physicians are anxious.

Keene Goes to His Stock Farm.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 14.—James H.
Keene, who has been ill of pneumonia in a hospital here, had so far recovered as to be able to go to "Castleton," his stock farm, a few miles from this city.

Springfield, Ill., Has 51,678.

Washington, Sept. 14.—The population of Springfield, Ill., is 51,673 as compared with 34,159 in 1900 and 24,903 in 1890, according to figures furnished from the census bureau.

HEALTH HEAD IS OUT;
IS ACCUSED BY GIRLCommissioner Brucker of Milwaukee Resigns Office Following Issue of Warrant.

Milwaukee, Sept. 14.—Dr. William Colby Rucker, health commissioner of Milwaukee, sent his resignation to Mayor Seldel following the issuance of a warrant for his arrest for a statutory offense.

The complaint is Miss Catherine Hinsford, a domestic employed in one of the Upper Grand avenue homes.

Doctor Rucker is well known from coast to coast, having been in the United States public health and marine hospitals for a number of years.

Doctor Rucker was granted a year's leave of absence from the government service soon after Mayor Seldel went into office, the mayor having chosen him for head of the Milwaukee health department after canvassing the country thoroughly for a competent health official.

Rucker was assigned by the government to service at New Orleans during a yellow fever epidemic and at San Francisco when bubonic plague threatened that city.

Mayor Seldel late last night received the resignation of Health Commissioner Rucker and it was accepted.

While Doctor Rucker says he has no doubt but that he will be vindicated in court, yet he feels it is his duty to resign to save Mayor Seldel any embarrassment pending the settlement of the charges.

FIRES PERIL WASHINGTON TOWN

Forest Blazes Cause Loss of Million—Destroy Many Homes.

Bellingham, Wash., Sept. 14.— Fanned by a forty-mile gale, the forest fire which started in the north wood clearing, near Lynden, has spread until several towns of Whatcom county are menaced, dozens of ranch homes and barns have been destroyed and a total loss of $1,000,000 inflicted.

The fire has practically surrounded Blaine and three houses have been destroyed.

All of the nine houses in the settlement of Hazelmore, four miles from Blaine, have been destroyed.

In White Rock, B. C., two miles from Blaine, a number of smaller houses burned.

At Enterprise, thirteen miles north of Bellingham, the Enterprise mill and a few houses have been destroyed.
Twelve houses near Ferndale have been burned. Custer is surrounded by fire.

SPRINGFIELD ROBBED OF CASH.

State's Attorney Burke Will Ask Grand Jury to Probe Shortage.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14.—When the Sangamon county grand jury convenes next week its members will be asked by State's Attorney Burke to inquire into a shortage of $23,341 municipal funds reported by expert accountants who have just finished a three months' investigation of the city's finances.

The investigation covered a period of five years, touching three administrations, and their irregularities involve all three.

According to the report of the investigators, most of the shortage was caused by forgeries, duplicate warrants and warrants issued on fictitious accounts. It is planned to institute civil proceedings with a hope of recovering some of the money illegally paid out.

PREACHES IN SHIRT SLEEVES.

Washington Pastor Is Enjoined by Court From Occupying Pulpit.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Rev. James L. Garfield, pastor of Mount Zion Papist church, was enjoined by Justice Burnard from exercising his office until the warring factions of the congregation hold an election and determine who is entitled to the pulpit.

The complainants declared that the minister entered the pulpit robed in a gray gown, contrary to Baptist custom. During the sermon, they allege, he removed the gown and continued the services in his shirt sleeves.

To the great disgrace, humiliation and disquiet of the members and congrega-

tion, is known among hoboes from coast to coast. During the summer he has been collecting the signatures of hundreds of persons through out Missouri to the petition for a work law which he hopes to have submitted through the initiative.

Dr. Benjamin Ridder, who styles himself the "millionaire tramp," is favoring St. Louis with his first visit in his worldwide campaign in the interest of the unemployed, which he says is his life work. Dr. Ridder says he was educated in Copenhagen, where he received degrees of D. D., L. L. D. and M. D. The wanderlust seized him early in life and he abandoned the practice of the professions open to him, to become a wanderer.

He says he early became interested in the unjust and unequal conditions confronting the working classes, and in his public discussions of these questions and his agitation of legislation to better these conditions, he has been incarcerated 602 times in 12 years and served 82 sentences of varying lengths.

The conditions he found in the penal institutions led him to inaugurate a policy of educating the public to a knowledge of the evils with a view to their amelioration, and in this, he says, he has been highly successful. In the 12 years of his roving he has visited 7,011 penal institutions and noted their methods.

One Condition.

"It's all very well," said Grouch, "to talk about forgiving your enemies, but it's not easy to do." "You're right," replied Dubley, "we shouldn't be expected to forgive our enemies except when they freely admit that they don't deserve our forgiveness."

Won Through Force of Grit.

Louisa M. Alcott fought poverty for 20 years, fighting it with splitting headaches, weary limbs and aching heart, but she made over $200,000 with her pen and cleared all the family debts, even those outlawed, her grit alone sustained her against poor health.

Grit Always Respected.

Clear grit always commands respect; it is the quality which achieves something, and everybody admires achievement.

UNKIND FATE

"I had an auto once, but I couldn't keep it."

"How was that?"

"Our feller wot owned it caught me."

A Boston Charity.

Not all the old hats go to the ash heap, at least they do not all go there when they are discarded by the owners, says the Boston Record. Some but dealers send them to the court-house, where they are given to the drunks and other men who have lost their heads covering either in the scrap that preceded their arrest or in the proceedings that followed.

The Silver Horde

The porters parted, and Wayne Wayland stood in the opening. He advanced to shake the young man's hand, his demeanor gracious and hearty. "Welcome home. You have been having quite a vacation, haven't you? Let's see, it's two years, isn't it?"

WATNE WAYLAND STOOD IN THE OPENING.

"Three years," Emerson replied. "Impossible! Dear, dear, how time flies when one is busy!"

"I have been telling me of his adventures," said Mildred. "He is going to dine with us."

"Have you come home to stay?" asked the father.

"No, sir. I shall return in a few weeks."

Mr. Wayland's cordiality seemed to increase in some subtle manner.

"Well, I am sorry you didn't make a fortune, my boy. But, rich or poor, your friends are delighted to see you, and we shall certainly keep you for dinner. I am interested in that northwestern country myself, and I want to ask some questions about it."

It was well on toward midnight when Emerson reached his hotel, and, being too full of his visit with Mildred to sleep, he strolled through the lobby and into the Poughkeepsie room.

"Hello, Emerson! By Jove, I'm glad to see you!" He turned to face an amiable youth whose colorless, gasbleached face was wrinkled into an expansive grin.

"Hello, Alton!" They shook hands like old friends, while Alton Clyde continued to express his delight.

"So you've been roughing it out in Nebraska, eh?"

"Alaska."

"So it was. I always got those places mixed. Come over and have a drink. I want to talk to you. Funny thing, I just met a Klondiker myself this evening. Great chap too! I want you to know him; he's immense. His name is Froelich, but he isn't a Dutchman. Come on, you'll like him."

Clyde led his companion toward a table.

Mr. Froelich shoved back his chair and turned, exposing the face of "Fingerless" Fraser, quite expressionless save for the left eyelid, which drooped meaningly.

"Froelich!" said Boyd angrily; "good heavens, Fraser, have you picked another? I thought you were going to stick to 'Froelich'!" Turning to Clyde, he observed: "This man's name is Fraser. One of his peculiarities is a dislike of proper names. He has never found one that suited him."

"I like 'Froelich' pretty well," observed the importunate Fraser. "It sounds distinguished!"

"Don't believe anything he tells you," Boyd broke in, seating himself. "He is the most circumstantial liar in the northwest, and if you don't watch him every minute he will sell you a hydraulic mine or a rubber plantation or a sponge fishery. Underneath his eccentricities, however, he is really a pretty decent fellow, and I am indebted to him for my presence here to-night."

Alton Clyde made his astonishment evident by inquiring incredulously of Fraser. "Then that scheme of yours to establish a gas plant at Nemo was all—"

"Certainly!" Emerson laughed. "The incandescent lamp travels about as fast as the prospect. Nemo is lighted by electricity and has been for years."

"Is it?" demanded Fraser, with an assumption of the supremest surprise. "You know as well as I do."

"I'm not sure. Just the same, my plan was a good one. Gas is cheaper." He reached for his glass, at which Clyde's eye fell upon his missing fingers, and the young clubman exploded:

"Well, if that's the kind of pit you are, maybe you didn't lose your mitt in the floor war either."

Emerson answered for the adventurer: "Hardly! He got blood poisoning from a hangnail."

Clyde began to laugh uncontrollably. "Really, that's great! Oh, that's lovely!"

Clyde said he was in poor health and wanted a chance to regain lost appetite and lost money.

"I'll give you a chance to recoup," said Boyd. "I am here to raise some money on a good proposition."

The younger man leaned forward eagerly. "If you say it's good that's all I want to know. I'll take a chance. I'm in for anything from pitch and toss to manslaughter."

"I'll tell you what it is and you can use your own judgment."

"I haven't a particle," Clyde confessed. "If I had I wouldn't need to invest. Go ahead, however; I'm all ears."

The other outlined the plan. To Clyde, Boyd Emerson had ever represented the ultimate type of all that was most desirable, and time had not lessened his admiration.

"It looks as if there might be a jolly rumput, doesn't it?" he questioned.

"It does."

"Then I've got to see it. I'll put in my share if you'll let me go along."

"You got why, you wouldn't like that sort of thing," said Emerson, considerably nonplussed.

"Oh, wouldn't I? I've got it! It's just what I need. I'd revel in that outdoor life! He threw back his narrow shoulders. "I'm a regular scout when it comes to roughing it. Why, I camped in the Thousand Islands all one summer, and I've been deer hunting in the Adirondacks. We didn't get any—they were too far from the hotel. But I know all about mountain life."

"This is totally different," Boyd objected, but Clyde ran on, his enthusiasm growing as he tinted the mental picture to suit himself.

Clyde was lost in an exposition of his fitness as a fisherman when Fraser burst out:

"Hello! There's George."

CHAPTER VII.

EMERSON turned to behold Bald's huge figure all but blocking the distant door.

"Call him in," said Clyde quickly. "I want to meet him. He looks just my sort." And accordingly Emerson motioned to the fisherman. Seeing there was no help for it, Big George composed himself and ventured timidly across the portal.

"Gimme a lemonade, quick! I'm all het up," he ordered. "I can't get no foothold on these fancy floors, they're so dang slick."

"Mr. Clyde offers to put $10,000 into the deal if he can go to Kalvik with us and help run the cannery," explained Emerson.

George looked over the clubman carefully from his curly crown to his slender, high-heeled shoes, then smiled broadly.

"It's up to Mr. Emerson. I'm willing if he is! Whereupon, vastly encouraged, Clyde proceeded to expatiate upon his own surpassing qualifications. While he was speaking a party of three men approached and seated themselves at an adjoining table. As they pulled out their chairs Big George glanced to glance in their direction, and put down his lemonade glass carefully.

"What's the matter?" Boyd demanded in a low tone, for the big fellow's face had suddenly gone livid, while his eyes had widened like those of an enraged animal.

"That's him!" George growled. "That's the dirty bound!"

"Sit still!" commanded Emerson. "Don't make a fool of yourself," he cautioned.

"That's him!" repeated George, his eyes glaring redly. "That's the Wills Marsh."

"Where?" Emerson whistled curiously, but there was no need for George to point out his enemy, for one of the strangers stood as if frozen, with his hand upon the back of his chair, an expression of the utmost astonishment upon his face. A smile was dying from his lips.

Boyd beheld a plump, thickset man of thirty-eight, in evening dress. There was nothing distinctive about him except, perhaps, his hair, which was of a decided reddish hue. He was light of complexion; his mouth was small and of a rather womanish appearance, due to the full red lips. He was well groomed, well fed; in all ways he was a typical city-bred man. Raising his brows in recognition, he nodded pleasantly to Bald, then, as if on second thought, excused himself to his companions and stepped toward the other group.

"How do you do, George? What in the name of goodness are you doing here? I hardly recognized you." Marsh's voice was round and musical, his accent eastern. With an assumption of heartiness, he extended a white-gloved hand, which the big, uncouth man who faced him refused to take. The other three had risen. George seemed to be groping for a retort. Finally he blurted out hoarsely:

"Don't offer me your hand. It's dirty! It's got blood on it!"

"Nonsense!" Marsh smiled. "Let's be friends again, George. Bygones are bygones."

"You dirty rat!" breathed the fisherman.

"Very well. If you wish to be obstinate"—Wills Marsh shrugged his shoulders carelessly, although in his voice there was a metallic note—"I have nothing to say. Mr. Bald and I had a business misunderstanding, which he said smoothly to Emerson, "which I hoped was forgotten. It didn't amount to much."

At this Bald uttered a choking snarl and stepped forward, only to meet Boyd, who intercepted him.

"Behave yourself!" he ordered. "Don't make a scene." And before the big fellow could prevent it he had linked arms with him and swung him around. The movement was executed so naturally that none of the patrons of the cafe noticed it except perhaps as a preparation for departure. Marsh bowed civilly and returned to his seat. Alton Clyde clattered for enlightenment as to the reason for this eruption.

"That is the fellow we will have to fight," Boyd explained. "He is the head of the cannery combination at Kalvik and a bitter enemy of George's."

Clyde spoke earnestly. "Well, that absolutely settles it as far as I am concerned. This is bound to end in a row."

"You mean you don't want to join us?"

"Don't want to? Why, I've just got to, that's all. The $10,000 is yours."

A month had elapsed when Emerson at last expressed to George the discouragement that had lain silently in both men's minds.

"You've played your string out, eh?"

"Absolutely. I've done everything except burglary, but I can't raise that $100,000. Times are hard, and I've bled my friends of every dollar they can spare."

"It's an awful big piece of money," Bald admitted, with a sigh.

"I never fully realized before how very large," Boyd said. "And yet without that amount the Seattle bank won't back us for the remainder."

"Oh, it's no use to tackle the business on a small scale." Big George pondered. "We'd ought to be on the coast now. We're shy $25,000, eh?"

"Yes."

But the clouds were blown away a few days after when Alton Clyde threw down twenty-five $1,000 bills before Boyd—got from a mysterious source, which he refused to name.

Emerson later met the leading sailor (aside from himself) for Mildred Wayland's hand, a personage whose existence he felt as a continued menace. He was visiting Mildred at her home.

Hearing voices outside the library, the young man asked hurriedly: "Give me some time alone with you, my lady. I must leave early."

There was time for no more, for Wayne Wayland entered, followed by another gentleman at the first sight of whom Emerson started, while his mind raced off into a dizzy whirl of incredulity. It could not be! It was too grotesque—too ridiculous! What prank of malicious fate was this? He turned his eyes to the door again to see if by any chance there were a third visitor, but there was not, and he was forced to respond to Mr. Wayland's greeting. The other man had meanwhile stepped directly to Mildred, as if he had eyes for no one else, and was bowing over her hand when her father spoke.

"Mr. Emerson, let me present you to Mr. Marsh. I believe you have never happened to meet here." Marsh turned as if reluctant to release the girl's hand, and not until his own was outstretched did he recognize the other.

The two mumbled the customary salutations.

"You two will get along famously," said Mr. Wayland. "Mr. Marsh is acquainted with your country, Boyd."

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

WISE FOOD SELECTION AS SUGGESTION.

Some schools of suggestion ignore diet on the ground that if a patient is told that he must not eat this or that, or that one thing is less digestible than another, or less nourishing, it will act as an injurious suggestion and serve to interfere with the digestive processes; therefore the suggestion is given: "You can digest anything." Such a suggestion may be effective in enabling a patient to evoke, subconsciously, sufficient vitality to digest the most indigestible ordinary meal, but the patient gains only the same benefit that he would get from a stimulant. Moreover, the rule works both ways. Because the physician advises him to eat baked potatoes instead of boiled, because the former is more digestible, the patient need not think that his digestion is weakening. Intelligent food selection can be made a means of positive suggestion in every case. I choose to eat whole wheat bread instead of white fresh bread, because it is better, and the constant thought that it is better than that eaten by my neighbor is a good suggestion. I have found from long use of suggestion as a means of cure, incidental to physical means, that there is no better carrier of suggestion than food, intelligently chosen.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Janesville Citizen is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really kidney ache; That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Janesville women know this. Read what one has to say about it: Mrs. B. F. Jones, 157 Western Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "I found Doan's Kidney Pills to be a reliable remedy for backache and kidney trouble. I suffered from pains in my back for years and although I tried various remedies, I received no relief. I could not walk erect, and had a constant dull pain across my loins. If I sat for awhile I could scarcely get up and I did not rest well. I noticed Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended and thinking they might benefit me, I procured a box at the People's Drug Co. They completely cured me in a short time. My back has been strong since then and my kidneys have been normal. Doan's Kidney Pills are worthy of all the praise I can give them."

BEEF BARONS GIVE BONDS

FOLLOWING INDICTMENT OF AR-MOUR, THREE SWIFTS, MORRIS ET AL, ATTORNEYS APPEAR.

ACCUSED AS INDIVIDUALS

Request That Defendants Be Not Forced to Be Present to Give Surety Is Granted by Court—Judge Landis Fixed Their Bonds at $30,000 Each.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Seven of the ten most men indicted on charges of having violated the Sherman anti-trust law appeared before Judge Landis in the federal court and gave bonds of $30,000 each, which will leave them at liberty until the cases are called for trial.

Armour First to Appear.

The first packer to put in an appearance was J. Ogden Armour. He was followed by Arthur Meeker, Edward Tilden, Edward H. Morris, Louis H. Heyman, Edward F. and Charles H. Swift.

Francis A. Fowler, also indicted, was reported ill by his counsel, who promised to bring him in as soon as he was able to come. Representations were made that Louis F. Swift and Thomas J. Connor will give the required bonds on their return from Europe, which will be within a few days.

The judge did not require the personal appearance of the packers in court. The indicted men were represented by Levy Mayer, John S. Miller and George T. Buckingham.

Bonds Total $300,000.

The court stipulated that each packer be held under bond of $10,000 on each count of the indictment, thus making the total bond of each defendant $30,000, and the aggregate of the bonds of the ten packers $300,000.

Attorney Miller pleaded with Judge Landis for a reduction of the bond to $5,000 on each count, as was the case when the packers were indicted five years ago. Assistant District Attorney James H. Wilkerson objected to the proposed reduction, and the court fixed the amount to $10,000.

Regardless Personal Bonds.
Attorney Miller then asked if bonds furnished by the Illinois Surety company would be accepted. The court replied that only personal surety would be proper in this case.

The judge gave instructions for the issuance of bench warrants, but said these need not be served unless the defendants failed to appear and give bond.

The government was represented at the hearing by District Attorney Rima, Assistant District Attorneys Wilkerson and Ellis G. Godman and Oliver E. Pugin, indictment expert.

Mr. Pugin appeared to be pleased at the outcome of the grand jury investigation. He refused to make any formal statement, saying under the circumstances it would not be proper.

Packers' Lawyers Are Silent.

Attorneys for the packers also refused to make statements. They would not reveal whether they would follow the usual procedure of asking that the indictments be quashed.

A rumor was current that the packers want a trial and expect to show that the government has assailed the packing industry without sufficient cause.

While the attorneys would make no direct statements, there was an implication that the packers did not fear the outcome of the trial.

In refusing to accept bonds furnished by a surety company Judge Landis said he acted on the theory that surety companies had no interest in producing the defendants.

HELPFUL GUESTS

Although of a hospitable nature, Miss Bellinda had long ago added to her litany a petition to be delivered from visitors in the spring. "Planting and visitors don't agree," she often said to herself.

When, on the day she was putting in seeds for her annuals, she saw an automobile turn into her driveway she gave a gasp of dismay and arose from her knees with an expression of fatigue not caused by her garden labors.

"We have come out to pass the day with you," announced one of the girls, who gaily jumped out of the car.

"And we were only two hours and fifty minutes running out from town," said another. "Wasn't that good time?" We are planning to go home by moonlight."

"Oh, Miss Bellinda," exclaimed the third, "how perfectly lovely your place looks and what a lot of spring work you have done already! Now, we aren't going to interrupt your labors at all. That would be a shame. We are going to help you. What shall we do? Shall I weed the garden?"

"It's a little early for weeding," answered Miss Bellinda, with a smile.
"I think perhaps luncheon should be the first thing on the program. My cook has gone for the day, so we shall have to prepare our own meal."

"All the more fun. We love to cook. Let us do everything," cried the girls in a jumbled chorus of enthusiasm.

"Very well," laughingly agreed Miss Bellinda. "You can start things while I get a little of the garden soil off my hands. You'll find nearly everything in the pantry, and what you don't find there is in the cellar."

The girls, having frequently visited Miss Bellinda in the summer, quickly made themselves at home and Miss Bellinda, dressing in an upstairs chamber, smiled as she heard the bursts of merriment rising from the kitchen and dining room.

"I oughtn't to grudge them such a good time," she said to herself, "but just now every day counts so much in getting the garden started."

She still was thinking regretfully of her unfinished garden beds as she went downstairs.

"See, Miss Bellinda, what a pretty salad I have made of watercress," said one girl.

"Watercress?" Miss Bellinda looked at her visitor in surprise. "Why, where did you get watercress?"

"In the garden. There was quite a clump of it, but I didn't take it all, for I thought you'd want to have another salad before what I cut grew up again."

"I'm glad you didn't take it all," said Miss Bellinda, looking carefully at the green leaves under the mayonnaise, "because I'm afraid it won't be very good in salad. It's campanula. We'll just throw it out, my dear, and not say a word to the other girls about it."

"I suppose it is a kind of a joke on me, isn't it?"

"Well," Miss Bellinda's eyes twink-led. "I don't know whether the joke is on you or not. I should place it in another quarter."

"Oh, Miss Bellinda, do come into the kitchen," called one of the enthusiastic young cooks, "and tell us what you think is the matter with these sweet potatoes. They're boiled all right, but they don't seem to be the right color.
I was so delighted when I found them in the cellar, and onions, too, but I'm afraid they're spoiled."

"Yes, they are undoubtedly spoiled," remarked Miss Bellinda, gravely, as she recognized her precious dahila roots boiling in one pot of water and a dozen of her choicest gladioli bulbs sizzling with cream sauce in another.

"And the onions aren't good, either, are they? They haven't a bit of onion odor."

"No, these are not good onions. In fact, they are very poor onions, indeed," Miss Bellinda laughed a little strangely.

"Well, that's what I call a disappointment."

"So do I," agreed Miss Bellinda, feelingly.

"You don't blame us for not knowing they were spoiled, do you, dear Miss Bellinda?"

"Oh, no, I—I am the one who should have been more careful. Are you making an omelet?"

"Yes, I thought that was the nicest way to use the fresh eggs I gathered," answered the girl who was turning an omelet in the skillet. "I never had the fun of gathering eggs before, and wasn't I lucky? I found 13 eggs under one hen. She was the stubbornest creature. I could hardly get her off the nest."

"I can imagine it was difficult," said Miss Bellinda, adding to herself: "Alas, my expensive setting of Rhode Island Reds that I put under the poor old hen this morning!"

Then she sat down at the lunch table and entered into the merriment of her guests. Her heroic good will lasted till she saw the automobile disappear with them around a bend of the road late that afternoon.

"Anyway," she murmured, "I kept them from working in my garden.
That's some comfort."

Senator Flint of California, appointed by Vice-President Sherman to serve on the committee, is still abroad, and in his absence the other six prepared a statement in which they declare that the majority resolution adopted at Minneapolis declaring Secretary Ballinger guilty of the charges made against him was "frivolous."

May Call Another Meeting.

Senator Nelson declared that he might call another meeting of the committee before congress convenes, and said that in the event of Senator Flint arriving prior to that time, he, together with the six who attended the meeting here, would constitute a quorum.

He further declared that a quorum of the committee is empowered to proceed with the case, and prepare a report to be submitted to congress, notwithstanding the possible absence of the five dissenting members.

The Philippines.

Systematic investigation of the Philippine Islands reveals the fact that the group consists of 2,000 islands, while before the American occupation the number was estimated at 1,200.

The Difference.

A fool is unable to see his own faults. A wise man, seeing his own faults, is able to keep other people from noticing them.

EARL MOORE, THE MAN WHO HAS PRACTICALLY PUT THE PIRATES OUT OF THE RUNNING.

Pittsburg, Pa.—If the Pirates do not win the 1910 pennant it will be largely due to the victories of the Phillies over them in the recent series, and particularly to one Earl Moore, who has defeated the Pittsburg team every time he has pitched against them. He has to his credit four straight victories over the Pirates.

HIS PREFERENCE

not tell a lie.

Washington, Sr.—That's all right, George, but remember in future I'd rather have you tell a lie than chop down a cherry tree.

Teach Zoology to Blind.

Even blindness is not allowed to prevent the children of Paris from learning natural history and knowing what birds and beasts are like. A class at the Parisian school for the blind is taught by the use of a fine collection of stuffed animals, which the pupils learn to recognize by the touch.

Introducing an improved method of selling Remnants, "The Mitchem System," a great convenience to every purchaser.

CALICOES
4 1-2c

To insure the success of this first introduction of a new method of Remnant selling we offer the most astounding values we've ever seen in short lengths of Wash Goods, White Goods and Towelings. Patrons of this sale will not only share bargains of an extraordinary character, but will receive their remnants put up in a form most convenient for display and for keeping in the home, preserving the colorings fresh and intact and preserving the goods from soiling and muzzing from handling.

EACH REMNANT IS ROLLED ON A MITCHEM ROLL, a patent adjustable tube with metal claps to hold it in place. These adjustable tubes are placed on specially devised tables as shown in the illustration and at one glance the purchaser sees the pattern, quality, length and price of each remnant examined. The remnants are delivered to you just as you buy them. This method of remnant selling has proven exceedingly popular wherever tried and we introduce it with confidence in your approval. The bargains are the main attraction of the sale. Never anything like them before.

NORTON & MAHONEY

The Profitableness of Reputation

"Queer thing this reputation. It takes toiling, and mulling to get it—takes singleness of purpose and capacity to resist temptation to cheapen, but once you've got it its value is transcended and can't be computed in dollars and cents. How infinitely better it is to build on a foundation of quality and worth than to chase the will-o'-the-wisp of cheapness which leads you into bogs and swamps.

"But My Trade Won't Pay the Price," walls some timorous soul. Your trade, dear man, is what you make of it. If you insistently talk quarter tea, and ten-cent brooms and five-cent brushes and ninety-cent apples and fifteen-cent oranges, how-in the name of sense do you expect the trade to ask for anything else? Try the other. Talk quality, emphasize worth, lay stress on inherent goodness, and watch the result.

Cut Loose From Cheapness, for you are leaning on a broken reed that will give you a bad fall one of these days. Profit and prestige lie in selling good goods. Is any feeling so all-satisfying as the consciousness that your name stands for the best—for quality?

And by all means talk it. Don't let your light shine under a basket. Give it publicity.
Get into the newspaper. Opportunity is bald behind, you must grab it by the forelock. Get a grip on Advertising and hang on. You can't help but win.

Josh Billings Said: "I Luv a Rooster For Tew Things," one is the krow that is in him and the other is the spurs that are on him tew back up his krow." You have the crow and you have the spurs to back it up.

Perhaps you think sometimes that The Gazette crows too much about its advertising, but we too have the spurs to back it up. And the best thing about it is that WE find it pays to crow. YOU will find that it pays too.
